STARTING POINT

The existing Victorian construction was lavishly renovated in a reconstruction project that has extended and revitalised the whole building. In this case, the challenge was how to connect the new to the old. The design was based on a profound love of detail, utilising only exquisite natural materials of a high quality and timeless design.

SOLUTION

Individual splashes of colour subdivide and lend substance to the open basement. The heavy yellow curtain – custommade on the basis of Eluis throws – separates the kitchen from the living area. Re-visiting the same colour creates contrast and balance within this space.
