STARTING POINT

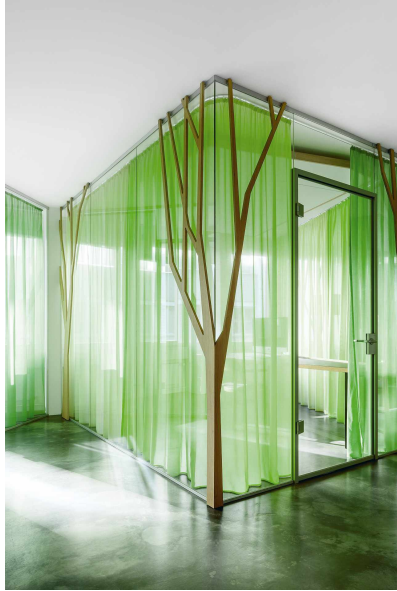

This young financial consultancy is rethinking its approach to the consultation function, placing the Client at the centre of its aims and considerations. OOS translated the values and positioning of the company into a spatial environment that directly supports the new customer consultation process. The Capsules (consultancy pods) were conceived in the form of tree houses, with mono-colour fabrics in tones ranging from pale green to off-white and transparent, allowing silhouettes to remain visible.

SOLUTION

The Capsules were decorated with tree shapes, which create an atmosphere as well as acting in combination with the swathes of curtain to provide the necessary private areas, yet create a feeling of airy transparency.
