STARTING POINT

A loft used as a show room for selling flats. Situated right next to the dwelling to be built, it provides on-site information and advice in a home-like environment.

SOLUTION

An open layout and visible installation levels on the ceiling lend the room prestigious business character. Ceiling-high curtains put their stamp on the room and enhance its private ambience. Depending on the light, the textile surfaces change their transparency: During the day they become more compact to create privacy, while at night the consultation area changes into a spatial sculpture.
