STARTING POINT

This assignment called for the integration of new office furniture into an existing 1970s floor plan framework, together with the creation of 45 workplaces. The key requirement of the specification was to combine the two extremes of “young start-up business” and “outdated structures”.

SOLUTION

The existing floor plan was radically re-structured and converted into a cocoon containing the new workplaces. Light, transparent curtains were used as a mantle to support the cocoon structure.
